Does My Child Need the Doctor? Loraine Stern
When a baby or toddler wakes, crying miserably with pain in the middle of the night, the instant reaction of every parent is one of blind panic. This is an easy-to-use guide to more than 200 problems that parents face with their children. It gives advice on rashes, high temperatures, nightmares, thumb-sucking, colic and pigeon toes. Each entry includes a list of symptoms, common remedies and guidelines on what action should be taken - should you call the doctor, call an ambulance, or simply be patient and wait for the morning to come?
