Patent Infringement in the European Community (IIC Studies (IIC = International Review of Industrial Property & Copyright Law)) Amiram Benyamini
The book is a timely and detailed analysis of the acts constituting patent infringement in the laws of European Community states and associated countries. The provisions on the question have recently been re-drawn in a standardised form which derives from the Community Patent Convention (itself an established text which is not yet operational).

These provisions on patent infringement need to be similarly interpreted in the different jurisdictions if any real harmonisation of laws is to be attained. This book shows the evolution and logical structure of the provisions, making apposite comparisons not only with the formner laws of the countries concerned but also with the US, Australia, Canada and elsewhere. It will be of major assistance in understanding a crucial aspect of patent law throughout Europe.
