Threads from Heaven Carole Engle Avriett
Throughout Scripture, God makes liberal use of garments and garment imagery to reveal things about Himself: glimpses into His nature, His purposes, His plans. Fabrics and threads, ancient weaving processes, colors and jewels, even military belts and helmets—each detail yields meaning, has significance. These incredible clothing elements help teach us who God is. But have you ever considered that in all of Scripture, God personally has designed only three outfits: 1. the garments of skins in Genesis 3; 2. the Priestly Robes in Exodus 28; 3. the Armor of God in Ephesians 6. These three vastly different outfits—these Threads from Heaven—yield amazing visual images not only of God Himself but of our relationship to Him. And they lead us to one profound truth—when everything else is said and done—He alone can clothe us.
